GOOD PROSPECTS FOR 1920 BASE BALL

Lomond stands a good chance of having a real live base ball team this year. The base ball meeting held in the municipal office on Tuesday night expressed the desire to back up a team that can deliver a number one brand of goods. An endeavor is being made to secure a pitcher that can pitch. Advertisements will be carried in the Calgary, Winnipeg and Seattle papers.

A committee will investigate the opportunities offered along the line for the organization of a league.

The new officers elected for 1920 are listed as follows:

President, J. H. Williamson.

Secretary, O. C. Barber.

Manager, Duke Armstrong.

Executive Committee: Frank Brown, Robt. Plunkett, R. N. Moir and O. G. Baker.

This is fine weather for poisoning gophers.

Another issue vitally important to the grain grower is the fact that the grain market is to revert from the hands of the Wheat Board to the grain exchanges. This literally means that the farmers will again start up their "millionaire" mill.

The sanitary conditions of Lomond's back yards and alleys in a great many instances will require acute attention when warm weather comes to preserve public health.

o o o

A pancake supper is being held by the U.F.A. on Good Friday night as a drive on the membership roll. Games and other amusements will be on the docket. For the benefit of the public it might be stated that while the committee makes the batter, after the crowd is paired off each couple has to go and bake his own cakes.

o o o

The women have become jealous of the public debates being participated in solely by the men and will enter the field on Easter Monday afternoon on the subject, "Resolved: That the housewife's duties would be lightened more by efficient management than by the use of modern machinery."

Cull Out the Poor Layers

Poultry culling demonstrations that have been carried on by the federal Live Stock Branch have clearly proved that it is possible to take out from forty to sixty per cent of the stock in the average farm flock and still leave the farmer with as many eggs per day as he was getting before.

An equally valuable service of the federal Live Stock Branch is the grading of market wool. According to the report of the Minister for the fiscal year ending 1918-19, approximately 4,550,000 pounds of wool were systematically graded and sold co-operatively.

These are only examples of the services of the federal Department of Agriculture, which has branches and divisions for the advancement of practically every phase of farming and gardening. This report, which is obtainable from the Publications Branch, Ottawa, covers concisely the work of the whole department for the twelve-month period.

Provided that any co-operative association or person dealing wholesale in fruit may cause the package containing such fruit to be marked with his own name and address, but such packages must also be marked with a number or other mark approved by the Minister which will designate who is the original packer of such fruit.

Friend winter is still with us. As a star boarder he is a sticker this year. Right now it looks more like the beginning of winter than the finale. Farmers who had everything ready to hit the fields had to draw in when blizzard broke out on Tuesday night. Even yet there are chances for a fairly early spring. The feed situation is fairly pressing, though some Ontario timothy is coming through. A great deal of speculation is rife over the order reverting the seed wheat price back to the market basis. Very few farmers have been able to secure their requisitions from the government agent, owing to the simple fact that he has been on the ground less than a week, and with headquarters at Enchant at that. It is generally thought that some provision will be made to protect the farmers at the reduced rate.

THE EDITOR'S NOTES

You don't have to stick around more than a day or two in Southern Alberta to realize that there is prevalent this spring a real feeling of optimism. What is at the basis of it is certainly not tangible, but there has been many fortunes built on foundations less concrete. It is the spirit of the times that permeates the air. Nothing that has been can overshadow the hope for what will be. The average man knows that South Alberta pays the one who sticks with the game and all reckoning is on this being a season loaded with pay dirt. Prospects and signs look up very kindly. But it is the rains that count. The acreage to be cropped this year will far exceed any previous year and the farmers generally can complete their seeding early.

o o o o o

Optimism in Alberta is not confined alone to farming operations. In spite of the fact that the cost of oil leases has been doubled by the Department, immense areas of Alberta lands have been written up by large oil companies. The little fellows have been frozen out, so in comes the big guns. The Imperial people are reputed to be spending two million dollars on exploration of Alberta possibilities this year. This, coupled with a mining boom in Northern Manitoba, should put Western Canada on the map.

o o o o o

It apparently is the feeling of the public that Lomond should put up a good sample of base ball this year. The public is ready to stand behind first class sport.

o o o o o

If the Lomond Agricultural Society desires to do something really worth while and at the same time fulfil the institute obligations, it might secure a poultry grading expert to give demonstrations and lecture here. Ignorance is costing we farmers too much money, and you can see in another column what the government is doing to help out in the matter. We are willing to bring our flock to town for the purpose and will also contribute a five spot toward the expense in order to have our own flock weeded out.

When irrigation was under discussion in the Ottawa house the other day the member from Kent county, Ontario, stated that farmers in his constituency were paying as high as fifty dollars an acre to drain water off the land and he didn't consider the cost of irrigation exorbitantly high. The Lethbridge Board of Trade has hit the subject fairly on the head. President Marnock states that the promotion of irrigation can only be accomplished after supplying the people concerned with intelligent information on the subject. We believe the government now realizes that irrigation is the only solution for these arid districts, but the government doesn't realize to the full extent its responsibility in the promotion of the enterprises.

o o o o o

Get ready for the spring clean-up!
